Hello CDSN Schools and Members:

Thank you for supporting and providing a quality education to those students for whom a Community Day School is a second chance. My name is Jill Macha, President of the Community Day School Network. I want to take a moment to introduce you to our organization and personally invite you to our annual state conference that will be held in San Diego, California from January 13-15, 2008.

CDSN is a state organization that strives to support professionals at all levels of Districts and Counties who are dedicated to improving the education, school climate, safety, and well being of CDS students. We are a network of educators in all professional roles, support professionals, and mentors. We influence relevant legislation and advocate for the needs of students, families, and schools.

Over the past decade, CDSN has established an outstanding reputation in the academic community for hosting informative and meaningful conferences. Each year attendees say that the CDSN conference is the best conference that they have attended all year. Our website is frequently visited to obtain conference resources or materials to use at Board meetings, parent meetings, and within the classroom.

This year's conference continues to build on this legacy. The current lineup of presenters and classes is outstanding. All of our presenters are experts in the field of education, educational law, and counseling services related to at-risk students.

I look forward to seeing you all at the conference in San Diego at the Crowne Plaza Hotel. To obtain more information and registration forms, please go to www.cdsnetwork.org.

If you would like to bring your talent to the conference to share, please submit a "Call for Workshop Presenters" form to Sunshine Sepulveda-Klus. Applications for presenters can also be found on the website.

Thank you again for your continued hard work. You make a difference for students and families who are touched by your dedication.

Sincerely,

Jill Macha
President
