

“PORTRAITS OF SUCCESS” AWARD NOMINATION

Name of Nominee: Ms. Randi James
District: Corning Union High School District

Name of Nominator: Dr. Andrea Nilsen
District: Corning Union High School District

Ms. James has been nominated for the prestigious “PORTRAITS OF SUCCESS” AWARD NOMINATION because of her positive attitude when working with students and staff.

I first met Ms. James three years ago when I began working for Corning Union High School District. She is always upbeat and positive with students and other staff. Her enthusiasm cannot help but spill over onto those who are around her.

Ms. James deserves this nomination for all of her efforts to help students succeed and her willingness to embrace change. Ms. James has the ability to see the silver lining in a situation. In addition, her great sense of humor is a welcome addition to any program. She has the right blend of seriousness and humor, which makes her the perfect instructional assistant for the community day school program. She is dedicated and a team player. Her optimistic attitude is contagious and makes it easy for students to relate to her.

It is obvious to anyone that enters the community day school program that Ms. James is well liked by staff and students. She holds students to high expectations and goes above and beyond in modeling respectful interaction and supporting students in their academic and social development. She has managed to form relationships with students that encourage healthy life choices.

Ms. James is a top-notch instructional assistant with a personality that makes her an asset to our program. I am grateful to have Ms. James working in our community day school program!

Thank you Ms. James!
